Helping organizations develop leaders through more effective communication

Corporate Oventions

It's not what you say that's important, it's what they hear! As speakers we all have a goal or purpose for speaking, but too often we forget that the audience is there because they have a goal or purpose for listening. When we place the focus where it needs to be (on the audience), we are able to construct the right message. In this keynote Kevin shares the three key areas of focus for effective presentations – prepare for the right audience, develop effective visuals, and deliver an engaging and memorable message. Don't let your next presentation end in a sigh of relief from your audience. Learn how to end your presentation with a Corporate Ovation!

9-Minute Presentations

According to Opinion Matters research in 2012, 50% of time in meetings is wasted. Much of this can be attributed to poor presentations rambling aimlessly for far too long. You can cure this issue by starting a movement within your organization to incorporate 9-Minute Presentations into your next meeting. If you have ever said to yourself after watching a presentation, "There was a whole lot of information that just wasn't necessary," then you need to know about this effective and timesaving method for presenting. While not every presentation can be delivered in the 9-minute format, far too many 60-minute presentations could have been. In this keynote Kevin shares the research behind the selection of 9 minutes, as well as the template for how to construct and deliver this effective form of presentation. Learn how to improve the effectiveness of your meetings while saving time and money for your organization. Join the movement today!

"Corporate Ovations thoroughly covers it from A to Z if you want to learn to give an effective presentation. You'll find lots of great ideas to make you a more powerful communicator. It will teach you to put the audience first and that will help make you a first-class speaker."

Mark Sanborn, Award winning speaker and bestselling author of The Fred Factor and You Don't Need a Title to be a Leader

"Russ and Kevin share powerful principles for delivering outstanding presentations. When you read this book, you'll never approach presentations the same way. I highly recommend it!"

Jon Gordon, Best-selling author of The Energy Bus and The Seed
